

It is fair that people with higher incomes have better pensions than people with lower incomes?

